ON PAGE IL

LOS ANGELES TIMES 20 January 1982

Leaks Cripple U.S. Policy and Need to Be Plugged

By STANSFIELD TURNER

controls to curtail leaks of classified have been unlawful. President Reagan's apreporters about national-security matters. be abused by overclassification or by selec-And Defense Secretary Caspar W. Wein-tive leaks. berger is instituting lie-detector tests to ferret out leakers.

the public a balanced response to these do leaks accomplish for our country? They commendable efforts. They are telling us often simply advance the time at which the that inhibitions on public servants will re- public will be informed and, in so doing, presult in a less-well-informed press and hence empt or destroy a foreign-policy initiative. a less-well-informed public, that no such Or they release some detail of classified data system of controls has ever worked any- that is well beyond the interest or compreway, and that the government will continue hension of the general public. to leak when it wants to for its own advansources of intelligence information. We may detailed descriptions of how to distinguish a spend billions of dollars developing a new CIA person from other embassy employees, technical system for collecting data, then based on records that the Iranian captors give away the secret for countering it. We held. I wrote to the editors and complained may endanger the life of a foreign agent that the American public hardly needed the who is taking risks at our request and on our specifics in this instance, and that lives behalf. Perhaps, even more important, by might be at stake. Both editors responded lessening confidence in our ability to protect that it was their duty to publish such inforour agents we reduce the probability that mation despite its irrelevance to informing we will be able to recruit the agents today our public. whom we will need five to ten years from foreign policy, and our military readiness, by this means. That is a risk, but would a set by tipping our hand or describing our capa- of controls such as the President has estabbilities. Perhaps the most significant ele- lished dissuade either a Woodward-andment here is that we are often denied oppor- Bernstein team or a Deep Throat from doing tunities to take foreign-policy initiatives what they each did? just because the risk of a leak is so high. In hostage-rescue raid into Iran did not suc- their reporting for the Washington Post, but ceed was the perceived necessity for ex- the popularity of investigative reporting, treme measures to prevent leaks during the and of whistle-blowing, has risen too high. took place.

Leaks of security informations are the luck. single most serious handicap to our foreign policy within our government. Certainly, leaks are the greatest problem that our intelligence agencies face.

Most Presidents have had to face this issue. Some have made valiant attempts to President Reagan has established new control leaks, and some of those attempts government information. The White House proach is certainly neither doomed to failure ordered officials throughout the govern- nor unlawful. He deserves a trial period to ment to get clearance before talking with demonstrate that his new controls will not

One reason it is worth giving the President's plan a try is that the dangers of con-The various news media are not providing trols are being grossly exaggerated. What

For instance, when our hostages were being held in Iran, there were particular What is missing is a discussion of the threats against those whom the Iranians damage done through unauthorized leaks. identified as having been with the CIA. Two First, there is the endangering of our major newspapers in this country published

The principal argument for not discouraging the illegal practice of leaking is that Second, we do direct damage to our someone will uncover another Watergate

Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein promy opinion, one of the key reasons that the vided a valuable public service through planning process. Even at that, the fact that There is little question that the public interan action of some sort was under way with est today lies on the side of curbing the respect to the hostages was beginning to be excesses of unauthorized leaks to which we perceived by newsmen by the time the raid have subjected ourselves. Let's give the President's plan a fair trial and wish him

> Stansfield Turner, a former Navy admiral, was the CIA director in the Carter Adminisration. He is now a consultant on interrational affairs.